The Three Minute Thesis (3MT®) is an academic competition
Developed by The University of Queensland (UQ), Australia for research students.

The rules of the competition are simple, but not easy:

Each participant only has 3 minutes to present his or her research with only one slide to an educated lay audience in such a way that they can easily follow and understand what the person is working on. A jury will judge the Three-Minute Talk. Additionally, every viewer with a smartphone becomes a jury member for the Audience Award.
